Merchandise Merit Guaranteed

Manufacturers, brought constantly before the public by their advertised goods, are usually men of high character, who make their goods as representative. But in addition to this, the educational force of advertising is such that the consumer is assured of honesty and quality because every reputable publication or advertising agency demands it.

When the consumer buys unadvertised goods, he gives up all these guarantees. He has no protection whatever, neither name nor assurance stands back of the product he buys.

If it is poor, he has no recourse. He does not know who has cheated him. The dealer is only the intermediary. For himself, may have been cheated in the goods.

In buying advertised products, the consumer makes up of goods-manufactured honor and sold on honor. He has the price advantage that comes from the big market built by the manufacturer advertising which by increasing the output decreases the cost of each package or article and enables the manufacturer to take a smaller individual profit on account of his great volume of business.

From every standpoint, the consumer is the gainer in buying advertised goods.

WATSON HEADS COMMITTEE TO OPPOSE BEACON HILL MEASURE: FEARS ITS PASSAGE

Charles that the forces of reaction are seeking to control legislation in order to nullify the progress and sound a warning that they are likely to get away with it. Councilman James A. Watson tonight announced the appointment of a committee of the city council to fight the Beacon Hill measure to control and electric light corporations to capture their franchise.

"Boston is in the clutches of a financial oligarchy," said the councilman, "and the Beacon Hill measure is a step toward the consolidation of power in the hands of a few men."

"They have become more powerful and stronger in their position, and the Beacon Hill measure is a step toward the consolidation of power in the hands of a few men."

5 BOSTON MEN ARRESTED AT GUNPOINT

Lawrence, Feb. 15.—Four Lawrence policemen with drawn revolvers arrested five Boston men who were entering this city with a truck loaded with beer from a Boston publishing concern. The men, arrested as auto thieves, had just passed a traffic officer at Anderson, despite a signal to halt.

All of the men taken, except the driver, were in a drunken condition, the police say. It is believed that they are connected with a band of thieves which has been operating in Boston. Special Officer Daniel Manning of the Boston police station of Boston took them back to the city.

WATSON HEADS COMMITTEE. Declared that in Boston alone the sum that could be raised in premiums under the law would amount to over $100,000,000, which the committee would have to pay in order to keep the law in force.

White Watson, the only speaker at the meeting of the City Council, declared that the Beacon Hill measure was a step toward the consolidation of power in the hands of a few men.

The above is a facsimile of the Brown Herald's editorial attacking modern dances and the conduct of young women at these functions, together with a reprint of a letter about the same, printed in other newspapers. In the letter, the Brown editors deny that they had any specific reference to Providence girls or dancing at Brown functions. The Herald editorial, however, makes it clear "that many of the men in college, in Brown as well as in Michigan, are disgusted at what they see of girls who should be pure, and should, but cannot, make good wives and mothers."

FURTHER WAR IS FEARED BY PADREWSKI

The Brown Daily Herald, the student publication at Brown University, recently printed an editorial attacking modern dancing and modern "social" life.

The article was condemned for smearing, telling improper stories and for attacking the character of the students. The Brown editors, however, deny that they had any specific reference to Providence girls or dancing at Brown functions.

ALL SUFFERERS IN IRELAND GET FUND BENEFIT

Massachusetts Committee is Working for a Purely Humanitarian Cause

The Massachusetts Committee for the Relief of Ireland has received many cables, letters and telegrams relative to the serious condition of the starving people of Ireland. The object of the committee is purely humanitarian, and takes no sides in controversial matters.

The money which is being raised for the destitute people of Ireland will be sent to alleviate their suffering. It will be sent by a committee in Dublin headed by James Douglas, treasurer of the Society of Friends, or Quakers, who is assisted by many well-known Irishmen of different religious and political affiliations.

The fund collected in America will go to all people in Ireland who need help, irrespective of religious or political connections.

Segregation Plan Incites Traders to Sell Short; Sugars, Steels and Motors Rise

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon, but most issues were showing the gains at the end of the morning. They were a little below the highest previous quotations. The market was quiet, with a few exceptions. Reading was weak, with a decline of 1/4 before the morning was over. This weakness was due to the segregation plan, which incited traders to sell short. Sugars, steels and motors advanced, while oil was irregular. Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange rates were higher at the opening, with a mark on the dollar. Demand sterling went up 1/2 cent to $2.49.

Strongest stocks included International Corporation, Boston American, General, Allied, International Paper, Allis-Chalmers, Ingersoll Rand, Westinghouse, General Electric, and Westinghouse. Among weak issues were Baldwin, Texas Oil and Gas, N. Y. Central, and First Trust. The market was quiet for the first hour, but then opened promisingly. Reading was weak, with a decline of 1/4 before the morning was over. This weakness was due to the segregation plan, which incited traders to sell short. BETTER OUTLOOK SEEN BY THE RESERVE BOARD

In its latest review of the business situation the Federal Reserve Board sees a better outlook, finding financial affairs distinctly improved and evidence of a revival of commerce. In regard to prices, it says:

Prices have shown a tendency to resume a more normal level, and the level, relative underlining to transfer to their customers some part of the benefit arising from reductions in costs. The price of production is a discouraging factor in the country's export trade. American goods have been sold at a loss of millions of dollars upon the export trade. CHAPTER VII.—Continued.

"Hem," he said abruptly, "you're making it possible for me to say part of what I really came over here to say to you. I didn't know before how to get it out."

"You see, Hem," he said, "I'm not a very good writer. I can't write like you. I can't write like you. I can't write like you."

"It's not unusual, is it?" he asked. "I know. It's what people do."

"But I thought," he said, "that you were a writer. I thought you were a writer. I thought you were a writer."

As a Woman Thinketh

WHAT a quiet, old-fashioned world it was—

When we were ten years young!

When the maids and the lads were considered shocking.

And the "sheep skirt" and the "pumpkin-bowl waist" seemed deliciously pleasant.

And you could still get a luxurious and intellectual thrill from riding in a taxicab, or going to a "theatrical."

When to eat your way through a "red hot table" was being a "holocaust" and to know how to

of spaghetti round your fork was the height of social graces.

When that wicked dance, "the bunny bug," was sanctioned from the pulpit.

And that stimulating fad was just beginning to set the world by the ears.

Oh, the glad, glad world it was!

And, on the "top" we had, and the things we said and did, and the dreams we dreamed.

When we were ten years young!

When we said those "nice" things,

"My wife goes to the country" and "my wife won't let me!"

When prohibition was a "joke" and the favorite quip was the one about the clothes on a husband's back!

When a girl could be a "daddy's girl" and a "daddy's girl" was the only way to get a "daddy's girl" was to be a "daddy's girl."

When a girl could be a "daddy's girl" and a "daddy's girl" was

Advice to the Lovelorn

Longing to Be Admired

By Miss FAIRFAX.

I am twenty-three and considered intelligent by both business and social acquaintances, and it is tonight among my friends that I have been of main admiration. When I tell them that I am not a good writer with any one of them I feel blue to think that and yet it is the gospel truth that I have never been asked to go out with any of the opposite sex, except once, with a man who seemed to admire my qualities.

But he was old enough to be my father.

I am the main support of a household without a father, and at times I feel blue to think that I, a girl of good education and good character, should be called upon to be a "wall-flower" while the painted-up dolls with silly faces having a good time.

Of course there are so many worthwhile things to do and think about just now, but I feel that I am not a very good writer and I am only twenty-three, yet I feel greatly hurt to think that I am not a good writer.

How can you expect any one to create more of your society when you do not say anything about it?

It is not a good idea to be a straw man. Take the chip off your shoulder. Stop thinking how much you are not a good writer.

Rules of the Identity Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Moving Picture "Player" Identification Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and sixteen cash awards will be given for these two contests in their respective cities. The largest percentage of correct identifications to the 120 pictures to be submitted in these two contests.

All winners of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser, and their respective cities, and all moving picture players and persons associated with the moving picture industry are absolutely barred from participating in the tests.

The test will consist of 120 pictures of famous moving picture players, to be printed two each day, in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture Sunday, December 19, 1920.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser will not affect anyone from entering this test.

Every participant at any of our members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures, but each must contain only ONE identification to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each and every identification must be neatly written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American or Boston Sunday Advertiser, or a new or used copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each identification blank.

Do not send your identifications in "plain" form, i. e., do not write identifications under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct identifications, awards will be given to the person submitting the largest percentage of correct identifications.

In case of a tie in the awards will be made on the basis of assistance, judgment, and exactness in writing, but if still in the case, the award will be made on the basis of the number of correct identifications.

MAKING BETTER CITIZENS—Fifty-four different nationalities are represented among the workers attending the better citizen classes at the "school" conducted by the Illinois Steel Company for its workers at Gary, Indiana. POLICE WHISTLES ON GARTERS—Since the many recent attacks on girls, Mary Clough of Wellesley has adopted this novel method of protesting. "Why on the garter?" she asked Mary. "Because that is the last place I would think of?" she replied. "Now if they saw you get aboard a car, old dear," say we. However, Mary has a perfect right to be there. "Yes, a PERFECT RIGHT." KEEPS TROUSERS NEAT—An English eccentric, realizing the difficulty of keeping civilian trousers in smart condition, has invented an ingenious device which lies in the cuff. (Central)

DRILLING SALT WELLS IN CHINA—The most productive salt wells in China are located at Tzuling, in the province of Szechuen. The city has a million inhabitants and the salt industry has been its chief support for at least 1,000 years. Much of the equipment is the same now as hundreds of years ago, but labor is cheap so that it does very well. It often takes years to drill a well. (Int.)

EDISON CELEBRATES 74TH BIRTHDAY—Famous electrical wizard photographed at work in his laboratory after having passed the w. k. three-score-years-and-ten mark without any sign of a letup. He still punches the time clock and refuses to take more than a half hour off for lunch. (Underwood & Underwood)

SIX SHIPS IN ONE WRECK—Photograph shows the S. S. Hurley lying in the Thames after an amazing series of collisions in the fog during which three different ships rammed her. Six ships were locked together in the resultant confusion. The poor Hurley must have been the smallest boat in the scrap. Everybody took a sock at her. Like one of those old Saturday nights. EVER GO KELING THROUGH THE ICE?—Great sport. These men on the Shewsbury river find it very profitable, too. Sale are taken out of this river in great quantities at Long Branch. The men at the left has just hooked one. When he chunks it on the ice you'll see something funny. Slipperiest thing in the world, an oil on the ice. (c) Underwood & Underwood

PRINCE OF WALES AT STAPLEFORD HALL—Photo shows the Prince chatting with Joe Johnson, famed one-legged runner, while waiting for the start at the meet of the Cottingham hounds. Johnson has followed the hounds on one leg for more than fifty years. It must cost somebody a bucket of dough to keep the Prince supplied with all those tests and riding breeches. (Int.)

DRIVEN FROM HOME BY BRITISH TROOPS—Cork, Ireland, has been the scene of many so-called "reprisals" recently. The Black and Tan troops have formed a habit of giving people a slated number of minutes to get their household goods out into the street before their home is burned. This little girl and boy are seen trying to save some of the family's scant store of furniture. (Central)
